HEAD CHAIR LETTER

Hello delegates,

My name is Tanzeela Salam, and I'm so excited to be your chair for the "What's Wrong With Whoville?" committee. I'm a second-year Public Health major with a concentration in medicine sciences. I have been in MUN since my freshman year of high school, and I've kept the streak going in college! I enjoy the creative elements of MUN the most, which is why I have the most experience with staffing crisis backrooms, however I am honored to be chairing my first committee. I can't wait to see the kind of debate we will have in this committee!

I think I wouldn't be alone in saying that Dr. Seuss books were an important part of our childhoods. In my elementary school, it was an annual tradition for the principal to read Green Eggs and Ham from the rooftop. Albeit that might be more of an individual experience, but we can all remember watching The Grinch during Christmas or the PBS' cartoon of the Cat in the Hat. I felt like this committee would be nostalgic for not only myself but for delegates as well. Nevertheless, this committee topic represents what I appreciate in most MUN – the use of formal elements to push imagination. For delegates, this will be navigating the whimsical world of Whoville through the lens of a city council task force. As for myself, I wanted to use my experience with forensic medicine to flesh out the committee topic and narrative in a unique and fun way.

I hope that everyone will have as much fun participating in the committee as I have had making it. If you have any questions or concerns, please feel free to reach out to me! My email is t1salam@ucsd.edu.

Best regards,

Tanzeela Salam

Head Chair

DEPUTY CRISIS DIRECTOR LETTER

Dear delegates,

My name is Daniel Sitanggang, and I have the privilege of serving as your Deputy Crisis Director for TritonMUN's "What's Wrong With Whoville" Committee! I am a third-year Political Science (International Relations) major at UC San Diego, and I have participated in Model United Nations since my first year in University. Outside of Model United Nations, I am also part of UC San Diego's student government and I am a competitor in Moot Court at UC San Diego.

This Committee presents a unique opportunity for you as a delegate to engage in fun, whimsical, and engaging discussions; to practice their diplomatic skills in a setting which is very much on theme for the UC San Diego campus and community. This particular topic presents you with a chance to connect with their childhood, and to truly take the committee in a direction that is generally going to be limited by just your imagination.

I hope that you have a very fun and enjoyable time preparing for and participating in this Committee, and I look forward to seeing you soon!

Best wishes,

Daniel Sitanggang

VICE CHAIR

Dear Delegates,

My name is Jason Pei, and I have the distinct pleasure of serving as your Vice Chair for TritonMUN XXXI's "What's Wrong With Whoville" Committee. I am a first-year Political Science major with a concentration in International Relations, so I am right at home in Model UN at UC San Diego. I am minoring in Urban Studies and Planning, which is a subject I am super passionate about and interested in. I have been in MUN since sophomore year in high school, though I have not been super active until I landed at UC San Diego.

I am a first-generation immigrant, and first came in contact with Dr. Seuss during the process of learning English that I am guessing would be familiar to many of you. Some of my fondest memories of my elementary school days were when my second and third grade teachers would have Dr. Seuss books for us to borrow and read in class. It has been years since I have come in contact with anything Dr. Seuss related, but Green Eggs and Ham will always be imprinted in my mind.

I hope that this committee offers all the delegates a chance to reconnect with that childish side in them, but also to test your imagination, creativity, and general MUN skills in a more silly setting. I am looking forward to what everyone has cooked up.

Best of luck to everyone!

Jason Pei

DEI AND AI POLICIES

Sensitivity & Harassment Policy:

TritonMUN is committed to fostering a healthy environment for diplomacy and dialogue, and upholding standards of diversity, equity, and inclusion for all delegates. Harassment or disruptive behavior of any kind—whether verbal or non-verbal, in or out of committee—is strictly prohibited. All attendees and staffers should be treated with equal respect, and discrimination on the basis of race, color, gender identity, sexual orientation, religion, nationality, ethnicity, or physical/mental disability will not be tolerated. This list is not exhaustive, and should not be treated as such. Please report any instances of harassment to conference staff, either directly or through the Anonymous Feedback Form.

In addition, we acknowledge that topics discussed in-committee may be politically sensitive, particularly in Specialized and Crisis Committees. While we understand that delegates may be immersed in the action and setting of their committee, delegates must maintain decorum and refrain from inflammatory language and actions, even when doing so may be historically accurate to one's character, group, or country. When drafting crisis directives, delegates should refrain from pursuing any action that explicitly violates human rights, including—but not limited to—enslavement and genocide. Please refer to your committee's background guide for specific sensitivity statements and guidelines, and direct any questions to the committee's head chair.

All attendants should observe these policies during the entirety of the conference, even outside formal debate, including opening/closing ceremonies, "FUNMUN", etc. Please note that violation of these policies may result in consequences such as disqualification from awards and contact towards the delegate's Advisor. At TritonMUN, our goal has always been focused on the delegate's abilities to enjoy and have fun in committee. However, in order to truly enjoy TritonMUN, delegates must feel safe in committee, which starts with respecting one another.

Plagiarism & Generative AI Policy:

TritonMUN recognizes that Model United Nations provides a space for aspiring leaders to showcase their work and abilities, and that all delegates wish to be evaluated in a fair and accurate manner. As such, we expect all delegates to perform with integrity and refrain from plagiarizing the work of their peers. This includes—but is not limited to—claiming the work of another delegate as one's own, including another bloc's unique clause without prior approval from the original writer, and replacing another's work with one's own (i.e. overwriting).

In addition, delegates are strictly prohibited from utilizing generative AI to produce position papers, resolutions, and directives, in part or in their entirety.

Resolution Work Outside of Committee:

TritonMUN wishes that all delegates use their breaks and downtime as intended: to connect, relax, and refresh. While not in committee, delegates are strictly prohibited from working on resolutions and directives. In addition, this means that pre-writing, or preparing resolutions and directives before the start of the conference, is strictly prohibited.

Technology Policy:

Technology shall not be permitted in committee unless otherwise directed by the Chair. This is in order to ensure the smooth progress of the committee, and to promote full engagement in the activities of the committee. Unauthorized use of technological devices may result in repercussions at the discretion of the Chair.

INTRODUCTION

While Whoville is an iconic city that many people are familiar with, there actually is not much information about the town and its lore. For that reason, in this background guide we wanted to expand upon our vision of Whoville, inventing our own stories of their politics and culture in hopes that it would provide delegates a better understanding of their setting. However, we would like to emphasize that not everything in this background guide will be of utmost importance to the committee and urge delegates to remain focused on the crisis at hand, using the information given as a supplement for that cause.

BACKGROUND

THE CANON

Whoville appears in many Dr. Seuss books, such as How the Grinch Stole Christmas and Horton Hears a Who, in which it is a city contained within a speck of dust. Furthermore, it has a dense atmosphere which cuts out contact with the outside world, essentially isolating the town.

THE TIMELINE

At the beginning of this year, there was a political shift in Whoville as Ned McDodd began his term as mayor, a victory over the incumbent candidate Augustus MayWho. McDodd comes from the Cupcake Party of Whoville, representing the youth who have entered politics while MayWho and the Muffins were the presiding party, in power for the past couple of years.

With the election, the Cupcakes were excited to prepare for a change, however they did not expect that change to be a potential crime.

Two weeks after the election, the Chancellor of Who University reported that the original copy of the university expense tracker had gone missing. According to him, he had been looking over the university's budget the night before, and he "could have sworn" he put the journal back in the safe where it is stored before he left. However, his memory has been failing him recently, so he believes it's possible that he is mistaken. The Chancellor says the university is lucky that they have a digital copy of the tracker, but that he would prefer the original journal to be found as the digital copy has not been updated with the past months expenditures yet.

One month later, the Chief Medical Officer of Whoville Hospital reported that some medical files had gone missing. Dr. Wyrd claims that it had been an issue for a couple months that certain files could not be found, however the hospital had been facing some budget cuts, which had contributed to administrative issues. For that reason, he thought that the files were simply "lost in the mess," but over time as the records were being organized, he realized that they had a larger problem.

Lastly, at the same time of the aforementioned reports, multiple businesses as well have found that some items have been lost. At first it was one or two small objects disappearing (like candy bars from the convenience store), however over time, more things of bigger sizes went missing in multiple different stores, causing concerns among business owners.

These reports were initially thought of as isolated, however it's been increasingly clear that something more devious is at hand, and the people of Whoville are growing more and more concerned. The Whoville Police Department (WPD) has been facing complaints as the townsfolk fear the safety of their families and businesses. Civilians are demanding that the WPD step up and find the culprit sooner rather than later. Additionally, complaints have been lodged at the city council as larger action is needed, investigations need to be put in place, and there has been no formal statement from any government officials on the crisis.

With dissent growing louder – articles being written, protests being formed, and distrust being sowed – Mayor Ned McDodd created a taskforce of important and skilled civilians in order to begin investigations as well as to provide a centralized course of action that would assuage everyone.

THE POLITICAL PARTIES OF WHOVILLE

There are two main political parties in Whoville: the Cupcake Coalition and the Muffin Party. They are not opposed to each other, and oftentimes do agree on many laws and changes, however they do advocate for different issues, which is why they have differing perspectives on allocation of resources.

Firstly, the Muffin Party is the older political party in Whoville, with the founders being the same as the founders of the town. Thus, their focus has been preservation, protection, and prosperity. Over time, the party has branched into different sections, specialized by topic in response to the Great Leavening of 1967 (this being a schism long ago, the actual issue of which no one remembers). However, since the schism, tensions have dissipated: the Muffin Party and its three affiliated factions (the Blueberries, Lemon Poppies, and Chocolate Chips) have maintained good relations, though the Muffin Party keeps a certain political edge over the other three.

Around twenty years ago, the Cupcake Coalition was born in the classrooms of Who University, with the minds of imaginative students and their supportive professors. These students wanted to have more room for individual expression, different career opportunities, and more resources for their out-of-the-box projects – demands that they found difficult under the Muffin Party's ruling ideology. Being a new party with no previous affiliations to legitimize them, they worked hard to create unity within the majority of university students and departments, and they outreached to businesses with shared interests. Together, they created their TEA (Technology, Education, and Arts) campaign that garnered them multiple city council positions in consecutive years. With these opportunities, many projects were put in place, the most notable being the construction of the Whoville Museum and Gallery of Arts, the public transit system, and the creation of the annual TEA Festival, where anyone can showcase their research, art, business, or invention to the town.

While these initial projects fared well, bringing both public approval and profit, in later years, not all Cupcake Coalition projects met the same success. For example, the expansion of the public transit system into one massive rollercoaster throughout town created a massive financial deficit to the administration at the time. However, these setbacks were nothing unexpected for an up-and-coming party, and these failures didn't detract from the good they were able to contribute from successful policies.

Eventually, the Cupcake Coalition was able to surpass the Muffin-affiliated parties and find equal footing with their predecessor, the two parties forming the majority of representative positions. As financial deficits accumulated over the years, the city council felt a need to select investments carefully, creating more competition between the Cupcakes and the Muffins. These tensions rose in the most recent mayoral elections between Ned McDodd (Cupcake) and Augustus MayWho (Muffin). McDodd, the winner, claims that with his platform he will put his trust in the bright minds of Whoville, believing that community ingenuity is the way to bring wealth back to the people. MayWho, as a last remark, stated that he had no issue with Ned McDodd as a person or a politician, but he simply believed that Whoville needed to focus on what it does well now and not what it could do well in the future.

WHO UNIVERSITY

Who University is one of the oldest establishments of the town, beginning as a trade school before expanding to include academics as well. It plays a big cultural role in the town of Whoville considering that most Whovillians are alumni of the school. The University has a strong bond with industry and politics in the city. For the former, the university sets up networking workshops and encourages alumni to return and give advice to students, creating long-lasting relationships. As for politics, the university is the home of the Cupcake Coalition, however even prior, Who University students have worked together to enact the political change that they want to see, hosting protests and writing influential essays and articles.

Recently, the university has put more investment in their art and science departments. With this aid, the school newspaper, film, theater, etc clubs were able to put out more projects, connecting with the community and businesses alike, letting art students play a larger role in Whoville culture than ever before. Additionally, the university has increased the funding towards research, with projects such as the Outerworld research of Harold Hoovey or the self-peeling potatoes of Mary Lou LaRue.

INDUSTRY IN WHOVILLE

One of the main industries in Whoville is agriculture, some of the core crops being beezlenuts, poppatopin, and fluffula tufts. The beezlenut is a sweet nut which is used in a lot of Whoville desserts, however it produces an oil dangerous to other plants, and has to be grown carefully (List of Foods in Dr. Seuss Books, n.d.). In the late 1800s, the poison managed to spread to surrounding crops, causing a famine that lasted for several years. Afterwards, more laws were enacted outlining beezlenut farming protocols. Additionally, the invention of the hoolabul – an aerosol that decreases the potency of the oil in adolescent beezlenut plants. Poppatopin is a corn-like crop that's also integral to the Whovillian diet, being used in similar ways that maize is in our world. Poppatopin provides 30% of total calories of the Whoville diet, providing macronutrients such as protein as well as micronutrients such as Vitamin A (Goredema-Matongera et al., 2021). It can also be dried, which provides a source of food that can last through winter (Goredema-Matongera et al., 2021). Lastly, the Fluffula bush resembles Truffula trees in the Outside World, being a colorful plant made up of soft tufts which is woven into cloth. It's a versatile fabric, being both breathable but also resistant. When it is knit and layered it is a good source of warmth in the winter. Fluffula products can be seen throughout the clothing industry as well as in household products and furniture. In the past, fluffula fiber was used to make a thicker kind of paper, however lighter, thinner alternatives have since then taken precedence.

In addition to agriculture, renewable energy is another important industry for the functioning of Whoville. All houses in Whoville use solar energy, while the manufacturing and factory districts use wind turbines. The use of energy in Whoville has been increasing over the years, which has meant that a bigger push for greater innovation into renewable energy and general energy production has taken place.

THE GRINCH

Not much is known about the origins of the Grinch, but in old, old records in the deepest darkest cabinets of Whoville city records are the files on the Grinch's arrival. The Grinch is not, in fact, a Who. He is a separate species called a "What," and he was displaced as a child, his caretaker at the time accidentally dropping him in Whoville, in the care of two elderly Who women (The Grinch, n.d.). Despite being bullied in school (where he was once bullied for being different at a class Christmas party), he was able to have a generally happy childhood.

In his young adulthood was a mischievous but harmless green-string salesman, later expanding to selling his wacky inventions. It was a tough business where he was met with a lot of opposition, but with his quick wit and charm, he was able to stay afloat as an entrepreneur... until the stock market crash in 2008 where he lost everything. Whoville did nothing to support him in this time, and he felt a deeper isolation than ever before – being a different species and all; a deep blue started to grow within his heart, turning his yellow fur to green.

The Grinch now lives on the 3,000 foot high Mount Crumpit with his dog Max, avoiding all social interaction except for when he decides to torment Whoville, as with Grinch Night – where a "Sour-Sweet Wind" starts to blow throughout Whoville, triggering a series of events that calls the Grinch to take his Paraphernalia Wagon to (unsuccessfully) wreak havoc and nightmares upon the town (Mount Crumpit, n.d.; Halloween Is Grinch Night, n.d.). After Grinch Night, he has remained a hermit inside his cave-home, scheming and stewing but ultimately avoiding Whoville. [Additionally, at the time of this committee, the events of How the Grinch Stole Christmas have not happened yet.]

Reporting Officer: Herbert Hitch

Incident: Missing finance report

Detail of Event: Received a call at 10:30pm from Chancellor Beeblebob of Who University, claiming that there was a possible theft. He states that he was working on university finances in his office, and then stepped out of the room to get a cup of tea. When he returned, the journal was missing along with some related documents. He claims that the window was also ajar when it previously was closed. CCTV at the time of the crime was blacked out.

Actions Taken: Officer Hitch and Boon came to the scene of the alleged crime, took a statement from Chancellor Beeblebob and Secretary Tootaloo, and took pictures of the crime scene. Detective Wholmes was assigned the case.

Reporting Officer: Jeremy Jumblie

Incident: Stolen Merchandise

Detail of Event: Samuel Snickersnort, Zoonie Befuddle (owner of the SepWH0ra), and Bertrum Bumble (owner of the antique store) together reported theft. It had initially started with odd bits, but the cost of the missing goods have been starting to increase. Collectively, the three of them have lost around $1000 dollars, with most of the loss on Bumble. These thefts would often occur at all three stores at around the same time. These three stores are all on the same street, however the storeowners claim that it's more than just their businesses.

Actions Taken: A statement was taken from each store owner, and Detective Wholmes was put on the case.

Case No: A115

Date: 12/28/2025

Reporting Officer: Bensyne Boon

Incident: Missing medical records

Detail of Event: Dispatch received a call at 2:33 pm from Whoville Hospital. Dr. Wiles Wyrd asked for assistance, stating multiple medical records had gone missing. Officer Boon arrived at the hospital at 2:45 pm and examined the scene. Some cabinets had dents that were not there previously. Officer Boon reviewed the CCTV footage and nothing appeared out of the ordinary. On December 25 from 2:00-8:00pm, there was no footage due to a power outage.

Actions Taken: A statement was taken from Dr. Wyrd, and Detective Wholmes was assigned the case.

STATEMENT OF CHANCELLOR JERRYWINKLE BEEBLEBOB

Unnecessary sounds, such as "um" or "ah," have been omitted from the following statement for the purpose of making this statement easier to read.

Officer on duty: Herbert Hitch

Date: 11/30/25, 10:46pm

Hitch: Would you please state your name for the record?

Beeblebob: Beeblebob, Chancellor Jerrywinkle Beeblebob.

H: What were you doing before the alleged crime?

B: Before the alleged crime, I was working on the document as one does. Then I felt a tickle in my throat – parchment had cometh over me. It was time for my nightly tea. Earl gray tea, a splash of honey, a touch of paprika-

H: Yes your tea, that sounds lovely. But did you happen to see anyone or anything as you walked out?

B: As I was walking out, I was looking at a picture of my daughter, and I was thinking about giving her a phone call when I walked back in and discovered the missing journal.

H: Were you on call with her?

B: No, I was looking at her via a picture in my wallet. I just said that.

H: Thank you, but there's no need for that attitude Mr. Beeblebob.

B: Chancellor Beeblebob.

H: Okay so, you opened the door, was there anything strange about the room initially?

B: Well, not that I pay much attention to the room, but as I discovered the missing report, I looked around to see where I had placed it. I noticed the window was slightly cracked open, which is strange because I don't believe in opening windows after 4 pm.

H: Is there anyone who would have wanted to take the report?

B: I don't like to name names but having an underling who is always jealous of my work. Secretary Tootaloo has always been jealous of me ever since I refused to buy her daughter's girl scout cookies.

H: She was also in the room next door at the time, did you happen to have any conversations or arguments with her beforehand?

B: Yea, the girl scout cookies.

H: That was today?

B: That's everyday. Everytime she sees me, she accosts me and tries to get me to buy those cookies but I don't want to because-

H: Okay Chancellor, thank you. It was nice talking to you Chancellor Beeblebob. We will try our best to investigate. If you have any questions, comments, or concerns, or if you remember any details afterwards, please feel free to reach out.

STATEMENT OF CHIEF MEDICAL OFFICER, WILES WYRD

Unnecessary sounds, such as "um" or "ah," have been omitted from the following statement for the purpose of making this statement easier to read.

Officer on duty: Bensyn Boon

Date: 11/27/25

Jumblie: Hello, could you state your name for the record?

Wyrd: Wiles Wyrd.

J: And could you explain the incident in your own words?

W: Yes, so I walked in the Record Keeping Room, which had been a bit of a mess in the recent months. Today it was particularly bad, and we had a lot of patients, so it was frustrating when the clerk and I couldn't find many of the files needed. I became more concerned when I realized some of the files I had organized quite recently. I knew for a fact they should have been there, and they weren't.

J: What is the clerk's name?

W: Juniper McDondon.

J: How long has she been working here?

W: For quite some time now. If you think she might have done something malicious, I assure you that would not be the case.

J: I believe you. I just have to ask for the record. Would you say that she is good at her job?

W: She can be a bit of a clutz, but yes, she's a very talented young lady.

J: And what about you, do you typically handle records keeping?

W: Myself? No. I only supervise, and when something is hard to find I lend a helping hand. I used to work as a clerk for the hospital when I was younger.

J: Was there anything else in the past month that was out of the ordinary?

W: Nothing much. There's been a lot more patients stopping by, but it is flu season. Other than that, I couldn't say.

J: Alright. We've reviewed the CCTV, and apparently on 25th, the cameras were cut out.

W: Oh, yes, because of the power outage.

J: Right. Was there anything peculiar about that day? And who was working in the records room then?

W: McDondon was probably working that day. Honestly, every day is just so hectic... Wait, I do remember something. On that day, there was a man saying he was here to fix the power and requested access to our electrical room. But it wasn't an issue with our building, power was out for the whole town, so I figured it was some scam and declined help.

J: Is there anyone who you would think would want to steal records?

W: I sincerely hope it's not theft. I just don't get why anyone would do that. But no, I can't think of anyone who would do this.

J: Alright, there will be a detective assigned to your case. And please let us know if anything comes up that you think would be helpful.

W: Thank you, I will. And please, I can't stress enough how important it is to find these files. Medical records are strictly confidential.

The New Who Times

Cupcake Coalition Captures the Recent Mayoral Elections!

Jane Candycane, 12/1/26

While everyone loves a good sweet treat, not many believed that the Cupcake Coalition – with their sugary campaigns promising to sprinkle money on Whoville – would actually take the cake in the Mayoral election on November 20th. However, Ned McDodd, being both an established politician and a loving father, brings a certain trust and empathy into Whoville politics that not many could achieve (Mezydlo, 2023). He claimed that with his platform, he will always try to put family first because family is the true heart of what makes Whoville home.

On the other hand, now ex-Mayor Augustus May Who has given an official statement on behalf of the Muffin party: The Muffins respect the campaign goals of the Cupcakes, but they still firmly believe in their party goals .

The Sunday Scoop

Obnoxious Who, 12/5/26

I think we all love a good improvement. Glasses when you can't see? Public transport when you don't have a car? Love that. But crazy physics shenanigans? You're losing the room. Dr. Harold Hoovey is an esteemed physics professor at Whoville University with many great accomplishments that have helped the community, but his current project is a bit more outlandish... literally. He claims there's a land outside of Whoville which has never been seen before. In an interview with the doctor, I asked him why should the everywho care? He replied that this discovery would "help frame Whoville in a larger context – changing how we think about ourselves as a society as well as an individual." Personally, I think he needs to think more of his reputation.

On the other hand, Dr. Mary Lou LaRue reports an update with her self-peeling potatoes. These potatoes are able to successfully peel themselves 55% of the time, and according to recent trials, they don't cause indigestion anymore! While chefs across Whoville are popped for this invention to succeed, the Potato Peeler Union has the cleaver in hand, ready to chop their self-peeling potato dreams. They claim that once again big institutions are setting out to crop out hardworking artisans from the industry.

Student council president Jojo McDodd reaffirms the talent of Who University, quoting Aristotle, "There is no great genius without some touch of madness." He really is following in the footsteps of his father, ready to take on a challenge when no one else will... even if there's a good reason not to. All in all, Who University faux-pas will hopefully faux-pass. With recent budget concerns, they can't afford to fund every crazy project, and they certainly can't afford to lose the public's trust.

KEY SUSPECTS TO KNOW

These are characters that delegates should be familiar with, but are not guaranteed to be relevant in committee. To re-emphasize, Whoville is currently isolated from the outside world, so every character here (except the Grinch) would be unknown to their characters.

The Grinch

The Grinch is the Christmas-hating source of mischief that all in Whoville fear. It is not known where he comes from, but some say he emerges from the mountains above the town. He is fluffy and green, making him ostensibly easy to spot, but at the same time, this vulnerability has been compensated by his clever disguises which he uses to blend in.

Aloysius O'Hare

A businessman of questionable morality and ethical character, Aloysius O'Hare is the presumptive mayor of Thneedville. He made his fortune after replacing the Once'ler, and subsequently selling bottled air to Thneedville's residents. Before being impeached by way of jet hat, he amassed an estimated net worth of $977,616,000,000,000 ($977.62 trillion)

Horton

Defined by his selflessness and stubborn faith, as well as an element of naivety, Horton the Elephant was a staunch believer in the existence of the Whos since the beginning. Despite ridicule, cruel treatment, and being roped and caged, he never falters in his beliefs, maintaining a noble and valiant character regardless of the situation.

The Cat in the Hat

Arguably the face of the Dr. Seuss universe, the Cat in the Hat is an accomplished magician and musician, being able to conjure endless tricks from his hat or any object, while displaying mastery over the lute, trombone, and piano. His playful and mischievous personality has led the Grinch to develop a distaste for the Cat in the Hat.

Thing 1 & Thing 2

The first of the Numbered Things, Thing 1 and Thing 2 (also known as Bim and Ben) are the loyal helpers of the Cat in the Hat, and will stop at nothing to aid in the Cat's antics. The two are reflective of the Cat's mischievous nature, and have been known to cause a good amount of chaos on their own.

The Lorax

A mean and grumpy appearing being, the Lorax is the actually kind-hearted and well-meaning speaker for the trees and a lover of the environment. Despite his thoughtful, loving, and selfless nature, it is not wise to cross the Lorax. He does, after all, speak for the trees.

The Onceler

A prominent former industrialist, he was known to have cut down all the multi-colored Truffula trees. He does this in a business venture to manufacture “Thneed,” a multipurpose garment that supposedly all people need. The demand for this product led to the cutting down of all Truffula trees in the forest, an action that the Once-ler now drowns in guilt over while living in recluse.

QUESTIONS TO CONSIDER

1. How should the task force conduct investigations while considering public concerns and safety?
2. What is an appropriate response to the crime committed? How should the perpetrator be dealt with?
3. How should Whoville improve policies to prevent this crime from happening again? What focus should these policies have, and what resources/parts of the community (the university, the police, businesses, civilian advocacy groups etc.) should be utilized?
4. How can Whoville come together to meet the issues head-on and find a solution?

CHARACTER PROFILES

NED MCDODD

Ned McDodd is the newly elected Mayor of Whoville. In this position, he leads Whoville's executive branch of government, and is responsible for now delivering on the promises he made during the election as the leader of the Cupcake Coalition, which in large part included the safety of the town. Ned, though a somewhat quirky figure, is devoted to serving his constituents and believes in fairness. He certainly feels the weight of the responsibilities he now has as Mayor, in addition to being the father of 97 children, including JoJo.

JOJO MCDODD

Jojo McDodd is the oldest child and only son of Ned McDodd, the current Mayor of Whoville. Heavily influenced by his father, he is also the Student Council President of Whoville University, driving an initiative to allocate more resources towards student-led projects. As a lover of alternative music, he makes an effort to support the music department. In fact, he has planned a university concert highlighting student bands and musicians. Having a knack for inventing, he also works with the engineering department and has currently trademarked the Symphonophone, which is an elaborate musical system.

SALLY O'MALLEY

Sally O'Malley is the wife of Ned McDodd and the mother to his children, including JoJo. She is a very supportive wife and a highly supportive parent. She is also highly involved in the community and serves as the President of the Parent-Teacher Association. Additionally, as the wife of the incumbent Mayor, she is honorary vice chancellor of Who University. She takes her roles very seriously and wants to do the best she can for the future of Whoville.

CINDY LOU WHO

Cindy Lou Who is a renowned child actor with philanthropic pursuits. She's starred in movies such as WHoMe Alone, The Wizard of Woz, and Snwho White as well as playing a minor but memorable role in Dr. Who and Weirder Things. While she's dedicated to her craft, her true passion will always be helping the people she cares about. She can often be found in the front lines of protests and making speeches at charity events, especially for education, women's rights, and animal cruelty.

DR. MARY LOU LARUE

Though Dr. LaRue can be klutzy and forgetful, she is the top researcher in the fields of agriculture and bioengineering. Some of her previous works (such as developing a more effective beezlenut aerosol) gained her significant praise, and as the inventor of a pesticide substitute, she was a recipient of the Whobel Prize in Chemistry. She's currently working on creating self-peeling potatoes while running her vitamin and essential oil company, Vitaminia.

EUCHARIAH WHO

Euchariah is known as the "Youngest Town Hero" due to an event that happened a couple years ago. The "Sour-Sweet Wind" started blowing, signalling the beginning of the Grinch Night, in which the Grinch started to make his way to torment Whoville. Euchariah bravely decided to challenge the Grinch to scare him, stalling the villain until the Sour-Sweet Wind stopped blowing. Ever since then, Euchariah has been recognized for his quick wit and his knowledge on the Grinch, being a consultant in some Whoville military affairs.

STU LOU WHO

Stu Lou Who is a mischievous miscreant known throughout Whoville for playing tricks and generally causing trouble across town. He is the elder brother of Cindy Lou Who and when he isn't busy causing mischief, he works as an apprentice to the Whoville Postmaster in the Whoville Post Office. As one might imagine, given his personality and the activities he gets up to, he has gained somewhat of a following at school as a popular rebellious rascal. He also invented his own brand of Stu Loafers.

AUGUSTUS MAY WHO

Augustus May Who is the former mayor of Whoville, losing his bid for a fifth term as mayor in the most recent local elections. The Cupcake Coalition of newly elected mayor Ned McDodd triumphed over the incumbent Muffin Party leader. He is characterized by his well-meaning, concerned facade paired with the reality of who he was: a self-serving, materialistic, and pompous mayor who was solely out for himself. He has a long history with The Grinch, being their archenemy and contributing to the Grinch's distaste for Christmas. Despite his shortcomings, his identity as a well-established figure in WhoVille means he retains considerable political power and influence.

STEVIE

A longstanding city councillor who now serves as President of the newly elected city council, Stevie wields considerable political power and public influence in WhoVille, with administrative oversight powers over the WPD, as well as considerable access to Who University administrators. As a member of the Muffin Party, he was shocked by the results of the recent Mayoral election. As the leader of the Muffin Party and the City Council, which serves the legislative branch of WhoVille's city government, Stevie plans to make use of his position to get even and help his party win back the mayoralty. Who knows? Maybe it will be him in the top job come next election.

BRICKLEBAUM

Bricklebaum is a festive man, often accompanied by his dog Mable. He is an established industrialist in WhoVille, being a lumberjack and owning a lumber mill in the outskirts of town. Even though his influence has waned in the past few years due to the town's shift to renewable energy, he remains a prominent figure in the industry business. He is known for being passionate about Christmas, and considers the Grinch his best friend (though the feeling isn't mutual).

DR. HAROLD HOOVEY

Dr. Harold Hoovey is a Professor of Science in the Department of Physics at Who University. As a scientist and astronomer, Dr. Hoovey spent much of his life working to prove to the others that there does exist a world outside of Whoville. Using his Who-Scope, and with some help from Horton, Dr. Hoovey eventually proves that he isn't crazy and that there does in fact exist a world outside of Whoville. From this point on, Dr. Hoovey has been a respected leader of the Whoville scientific community, and serves as Chairman of the Whoville Academics Society.

TOOTHY WHO

Toothy Who is the only dentist of Whoville, working in her own clinic aside and advertising the benefits of dental care to the community without the help of Who Hospital, which she claims has a monopoly on health services in Whoville. Though she rarely agrees with Dr. Wiles Wyrd, she does share concerns for the missing medical files, fearing her patient records might be stolen next.

OBNOXIOUS WHO

Obnoxious Who is an infamous tabloid journalist in the town of WhoVille and has an extensive but mysterious network of retrieving latest gossip. In any official capacity, Obnoxious Who is little more than a nuisance, or obnoxious if you will. However, he has a significant audience reach, and thus significantly impacts the public's view of the events of the town. In some cases, the pen is mightier than the sword.

HAILEY YELP

Hailey Yelp is a long-time public servant of the city, having clerked in city hall for who even knows how long. She has an intimate knowledge of basically all of the city's affairs, with her extended tenure leading to that knowledge extending beyond party lines. While limited in power, she has access to a treasure trove of knowledge, with most city council matters passing through her hands at some point.

INNOVATIA WHO

Innovatia Who is a notable inventor in the Whoville community. Despite being well-known, she largely keeps to herself, working on her own machinations in the sanctum of her large laboratory, which happens to be adjacent to her home. Among her inventions is the egg slicer and Whooverboard. Her creativity knows no bounds, and many creative minds aspire to learn from her.

WHODINI

Whodini is the town magician, performing crazy stunts that scare and amaze Whovillians. Considering the perfect image Whoville likes to keep up, Whodini's acts are seen as sometimes indecent and inappropriate, but many (especially his young adult audience) are fascinated. Not surprisingly, he has a rebellious streak, wanting to stun his audience. This correlates to passion projects outside of magic – social change. He often helps devise unique ways of protesting and uses his charisma to garner attention.

CRAZY MOSE

Crazy Mose is the town hat seller. Having been previously knocked out by the Grinch using a sleeping gas, he despises and is still very scared of the Grinch. He has made it his life's mission to dominate the hat industry and to get even with the Grinch.

CLOSING REMARKS

We hope that all this information has been very helpful to allow you to form, at least, an idea of the many opportunities you can pursue in committee. Whatever this guide contains should not necessarily be considered to be constraints (with exception of the parts that detail rules and policies), but rather to serve as a springboard from which you can build and contribute to a story that you create alongside your fellow delegates in committee.

While reading through the background guide, you will notice that each character has some sort of tool that allows them to make contributions to a solution for the problem that Whoville now faces. At the same time, there are many uncertainties and loose ends that you can use in order to derive some sort of personal benefit from your character in the pursuit of reaching a resolution to the issue.
